4. Customers with characteristics of vulnerability

A typical Fleet Mortgages Customer

Although our typical mortgage customer will have a good understanding of the products available, we understand that they are still at risk of becoming vulnerable, whether this is a temporary, occasional or permanent vulnerability, and may be at risk of poor outcomes when it comes to dealing with their finances. This is why particular care must be taken to ensure they fully understand the commitment they are agreeing too.

Mortgage Broker and their responsibility

If advice or any additional information is sought by customers, their mortgage broker should offer that prior to completion of the mortgage. It is the responsibility of the mortgage broker to notify us of any confirmed or potential vulnerabilities present with their customer. It is also the responsibility of the broker to make clear to the customer the implications of the arrangement they are entering into, to reduce the risk of harm occurring. Intermediaries should continue to comply with their obligations to ensure that they treat customers in vulnerable circumstances fairly and gain explicit consent to share this information with us for ongoing support where required following completion of the mortgage.

Aging customers

It is our experience that landlords tend to be older and may become vulnerable during the term of the mortgage. For this reason, we restrict lending beyond a certain age at the end of the mortgage term and have prudent policies in place to deal with vulnerable customers.

Vulnerability considerations

We understand that your customers may sometimes require additional support, therefore consider the needs, characteristics, and objectives of customers with characteristics of vulnerability at all stages of the design process to ensure our mortgage products meet their needs too.

Here are some of the ways we can support customers with potential vulnerabilities:

- We will do everything we can to understand customer circumstances and support their needs to provide the right outcome
- We promise to remain and approachable and communicate with our customers sensitively and with respect
- We aim to make our communications as clear, accessible and easy to understand as possible
- Our staff have received specialist training to ensure they understand how to identify potential signs of vulnerability and how to appropriately handle such situations

- We review and update our policies and procedures to help improve the overall customer experience

5. Our assessment of value

We have developed a comprehensive and robust assessment process which evaluates several aspects of our business to determine the value of our mortgage products. This analysis is used to ascertain whether our mortgage products deliver fair value for customers.

Additionally, all new product and pricing changes follow a strict governance process whereby the fair value assessment is considered and forms part of the proposal shared with our parent company.

Our fair value assessment has considered the following:

Benefits	Price	Costs	Limitations
1. Free valuations on certain types of properties	1. The interest rate we charge allows us to make a sustainable profit and are similar to those charged by our peers	The cost of funding our mortgage products is determined by:	1. Capital and funding constraints by our parent company
2. Shorter-Term Fixed Rates offer flexibility and choice for those that want to refinance after 2 years	2. The fees we charge at origination cover our origination cost and are similar to those charged by our peers	1. The funding cost of our parent company and the cost of hedging the fixed rate mortgages	2. Regulatory constraints (e.g. consumer buy-to-let)
3. Medium-Term Fixed Rates offer comfort in knowing what is being paid and allows the choice to refinance after 5 years	3. Ongoing fees and charges are transparent, available on our website and appropriate to the cost associated with servicing mortgages	2. The cost of valuing a Property	3. Operational constraints
4. Available on an Interest Only and Capital Repayment basis		3. The procurement cost we pay to intermediaries for introducing mortgage applications to us	4. Risk Appetite Constraints
5. Various communication channels available to customer and mortgage broker		4. The operating cost associated with running a specialist mortgage business	5. Swap rates/market volatility
6. Knowledge and comfort that the product has been introduced in a fair way by an unbiased intermediary as the most appropriate product for the customer
